BIG TUMULT IN A CHURCH

One Pastor Preferring Charges Against Another,

Alleging All Manner of Indiscretions
—The Women, in Shame, Leave the Meeting—Streets Crowded by a Morbid Crowd.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 12.—To say that the members of the Willis Street Baptist Church expected a circus last night to the meeting to investigate the Garvey-Bradbury scandal would be to express things mildly. With this knowledge the little street in which the Baptist Church stands was crowded at an early hour. The Bradbury faction was triumphant, for the Rev. Joseph R. Ash, whose publication against the pastor had excited such indignation and who had been expelled from the last meeting, had announced that he had other charges to prefer against the person, which would prove that the Bradbury slander was not a slander, according to the most recent Websterian definition.

At 8 o'clock the church was crowded. Pastor Gurrey took the chair and hymns were sung but the harmony was rudely broken by a point suggested by a deacon to the effect that the person had no right in the chair; that it was an adjourned meeting and that Mr. Johnson, who had presided at the last gathering, ought to assume presidential functions.

"No, sir," said the pastor, "I am above you all. No man under the gates of heaven has the power to remove me. I will preside and I shall preside. And now let me say that Brother Ash, who was voted out of the last meeting, must now leave the room."

"One thing at a time," shouted a member, while the women hooted and the children laughed in sheer joy at the anticipation of good things to come. Votes were taken, and 105 against 70 voted that Pastor Gurrey should keep the chair. As that gentleman had apparently not the least intention of resigning it, he was not as much elated as might have been expected.

"And now," shouted one of the person's party, "that question is disposed of. Let Brother Ash leave the room or I'll call for the officers to put him out. There are crowds of policemen here. (There were two.)

Brother Ash rose to his feet. He was not a bit afraid. He knew his strength.

"I want to say a word. May I say it?"

"No! No!" shouted the women.

"I must say one word," persisted Brother Ash.

"Hurry up, then," shouted half a dozen, "and have done with it."

"If the brother had a grain of Christian feeling he could not say a word," came from the chair. "He has no right to say a word."

A perfect tumult arose at this moment. Shouts of "Call the officer," "Turn him out," sounded through the edifice. Then up stood a deacon on his stumpy little legs and electrified all present.

"There is no need for these unseemly proceedings. May God come down and strike me dead if we don't find out the truth. May God visit me this minute if we don't arrive at a right conclusion."

There was a momentary silence, during which a pin could have been heard to fall. The solemnity of the invocation struck terror into the breasts of all present. Then Deacon Smith took the floor and did his best to profit by the subdued condition brought about by the extraordinary utterance of the presiding pecker.

"The two articles published by Brother Ash," he said, "charging these crimes to Pastor Gurrey were derogatory to the best interests of the church. Ash wrote them both. We know. He disgraced himself at my house by calling the pastor a liar. That is gross, unchristian conduct. Still let me say I would shake hands with him as a friend, but not as a member of the church."

To this charming little condescension Brother Ash replied with a withering scowl, and Deacon Smith sat down and smiled at the pastor, his partisan. Then the Rev. Joseph R. Ash arose. The opportunity for which he had been waiting all evening had come. All were silent.

"American citizens," he said, with apparent huskiness—"for you are American citizens—I want to do it. I wrote the damaging articles. They were damaging, and were meant to be so. I will show that the character of your pastor is no better than it should be."

Brother Ash then read a sworn affidavit of a Newark woman to the effect that Pastor Gurrey had courted her, took her to the theater and acted indecently in her presence, and that at other times he induced her to believe that he was a widower and about to marry her.

The howls that arose upon this reading were simply awful. A large number of ladies left the church on account of the indecent details of the affidavit.

Mr. Gurrey denounced the affidavit as false and made a speech.

Finally, Mr. Ash's charges were referred to a committee of deacons.

Deacon England was then tried on the charge of calling the pastor a liar, and acquitted.

MURDER MYSTERY CLEARED.

Skeleton of a Farmer Found Who Disappeared Sixteen Years Ago.

BEAVER GLEN, Pa., Sept. 12.—An old murder mystery was cleared up yesterday in a singular way. Some boys were playing at the mouth of a long abandoned shaft when one dropped a watch into it. Upon being let down to recover it he discovered the skeleton of a man and near it an old copper tobacco box with some words scrawled on it. The box was identified by an old resident as belonging to John Ireland, a well-to-do farmer who disappeared sixteen years ago, after being suspected of murdering his children. The writing on the box accused one Ira Tompkins and Mrs. Ireland with murdering the children and throwing Ireland down the shaft after having, as they supposed, killed him. Tompkins married Mrs. Ireland soon after her husband's disappearance. It is supposed that after Ireland was thrown down the shaft he recovered long enough to write the history of the crime and then perished from his wounds or from starvation. Old residents recall that indistinct sounds were heard coming from the shaft about that time, which caused the place to be shunned as haunted ground. Mrs. Ireland died four years after her union with Tompkins. It was suspected that he had treated her cruelly, if he did not kill her. Tompkins then left the country and has never been heard of since.

CHURCH PROPERTY.

Renewal of an Ecclesiastical Fight

Begun in 1837.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 12.—An interesting legal ecclesiastical question involving the ownership of church property valued at several hundred thousand dollars is being argued before a special referee in this city. In 1837 the Lutheran Synod of South Carolina and adjacent States expelled the Rev. Godfrey Dreher from its membership for heresy. A majority of the incorporators and members of the Synod arranged themselves on the side of the Rev. Mr. Dreher and with him became associated with the Tennessee Synod, and held possession of the church property in this State. Those who adhered to the South Carolina Synod instituted suit for the purpose of obtaining possession of the church temporalities before Chancellor Job Johnson. In 1841 Chancellor Johnson filed his decree, setting forth that the adherents of the South Carolina Synod were the proper custodians of the church property and those who seceded or were expelled lost all rights therein. But as the adherents had failed to give notice to the Rev. Mr. Dreher and his followers of the action of the Synod in reference to the expulsion, the Rev. Godfrey Dreher and the seceders were permitted to hold possession of the church property and the bill in equity was dismissed. Counsel for the South Carolina Synod have recently given the notice required in the decree of Chancellor Johnson, rendered in 1841, and have filed complaints and demand for relief. Eminent counsel are engaged on both sides and the proceedings of the reference are of unusual interest, as the form of baptism, the administration of the Lord's Supper and other matters of Lutheran Church government and doctrine are being inquired into and argued.

HARRISON'S CLOSE CALL.

Refusing to Bet, He Came Near Getting Shot.

LINCOLN, Ill., Sept. 12.—Carter Harrison met with a singular experience in this city last evening. At a pressing invitation of the Democrats of this place he came here from Mt. Pulaski and took up his quarters at the Commercial House, where he held an informal reception. Among the callers were Captain J. M. Hough, formerly of Chicago, and a bitter Republican partisan, who wanted to bet Carter he would not be elected. The Colonel pressed his offers to bet and at last became personal and was removed from the room. He went home, changed his coat and took his six-shooter with him, intending to interview Carter Harrison again. Before he gained admission he was arrested and placed in the calaboose. The greatest excitement prevailed, as the Colonel is a man of wealth and standing in the community. Friends secured his release and all is serene again. Carter Harrison left for Chicago on the night train.

A Swindler's Confession.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 12.—Grothouse, the would-be circulator of forged drafts on the Franklin Land and Cattle Company, of New York, arrested Tuesday, yesterday made a full confession. He says his real name is A. Neiderman, a native of Guttenberger, Saxony, and forty-seven years old. He claims to have been a Scotland Yard detective. His open confession, he says, is actuated by a hearty sickening of the life he has been leading. He will be held to await the action of the authorities of Dodge City, Kansas.

Chief of Police Kills a Desperado.

HOT SPRINGS, Mo., Sept. 12.—At 8 o'clock to-night Ed Howell, a former railroad man from Memphis, and a participant in the Doran-Flynn affair of last spring, had a fight with Chief of Police Toler, who at the time was very active in expelling gamblers. Howell lately returned, and was carrying a pistol for the officer. Howell drew the weapon, when Toler forced it from his hand and shot him dead with it. Howell was a noted desperado, and frequently engaged in affairs.

A Wealthy Lady's Suicide.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Brown, an old and wealthy resident of Sarpy County, was killed by a Union Pacific freight train near Papillion station. She was walking on the track, and when the engineer blew the whistle, she stepped off, but when the train had got within a few feet of her she deliberately stepped back in front of the engine. It was probably a case of suicide. She had been ill for some time, and was probably slightly deranged.

McCullough's Mind Wanders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Sun says John McCullough, the tragedian, was found wandering aimlessly about Manhattan Beach yesterday, and from some undiscovered cause, quite unable to take care of himself. He was not intoxicated and seemed to be suffering from some indisposition. He made his way to Brighton and was there also recognized and finally sent home.

Rats Eating a Babe.

LYNN FORT, Pa., Sept. 12.—While Mr. and Mrs. Perry Love were absent from home last evening, a servant placed their infant child in a room and went out. When the parents returned they found that the baby had been almost devoured by rats. One finger had been eaten off and the flesh gnawed from the face and breast. The child had almost died from loss of blood.

Four Men Drowned.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., Sept. 12.—A row boat containing four men from St. Catharines was run down by the steam yacht Lively between here and St. Catharines, last evening, and four of the occupants were drowned. The fifth man was saved and taken to St. Catharines. The names of the parties are not known yet.

Mahanoro Bombarded.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A dispatch just received states that the French fleet bombarded Mahanoro, Madagascar, on the 22nd, and temporarily occupied the place.

DISEASE AMONG CATTLE

Pleuro-Pneumonia Traced by Dr.
Salmon to Troy, Ohio,

From Whence the Disease Was Carried to Illinois—Action of Chicago
Live Stock Exchange—
Foot Rot in Indiana.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Dr. Salmon, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has returned to the city. He says that he had been tracing the source from which the cattle disease had spread over the West. He had located it in a herd at Troy, Ohio. The herd was owned by a man named Dye, who had been handling a large quantity of cattle. He had shipped four lots West, and one of them had brought the epidemic into Illinois. He could not trace the other three. There were still chronic cases of disease among Dye's cattle. Dr. Salmon said he should continue to trace up the disease. He would make a report to the bureau in Washington, and a bill would probably be presented this winter in Congress to meet the exigencies of the occasion.

At a meeting of the Live-Stock Exchange at the Stock-Yards the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The members of the Chicago Live-Stock Exchange have many millions of dollars invested in and depending upon the live-stock industry of the country; and

WHEREAS, It has been declared recently by agents of the Department of Agriculture that contagious "pleuro-pneumonia" now exists to an alarming extent in the State of Illinois among the breed of cattle known as Jerseys; and

WHEREAS, Apparently well-authenticated reports of the existence upon the prairies and western ranges of all the contagious diseases with which cattle are ever afflicted have been frequent for many years, and as often proven to be utterly without foundation in fact, thus unsettling the markets and seriously depreciating the value of our live stock and meats at home and abroad; therefore,

RESOLVED, That, for the purpose of determining beyond question whether or not the disease now declared, as aforesaid, to exist among certain cattle in the State of Illinois is contagious, the Chicago Live Stock Exchange hereby places at the disposal of the Hon. George B. Loring, Commissioner of Agriculture, ten head of cattle subject to the following conditions only:

1. That the said cattle shall be placed among any cattle in the State of Illinois which the honorable Commissioner may declare to be afflicted with contagious "pleuro-pneumonia," and allowed to run and feed with the cattle so diseased, in the same manner as cattle run and feed together on the farm, for the period of three months, unless the honorable Commissioner should sooner determine that said cattle were in no danger of contracting contagious pleuro-pneumonia from the diseased cattle.

2. The Chicago Live Stock Exchange shall be allowed to keep an agent of their own selection with the cattle, but such agent shall have no authority to move the said cattle or change the manner of their treatment.

3. That none of the said cattle shall be slaughtered without a living the said Live-Stock Exchange ample opportunity to cause a post-mortem examination to be made, and if any of said cattle die none of them shall be buried without giving the same notice.

4. That the Chicago Live-Stock Exchange shall be allowed to again take possession of the said cattle at the expiration of the time probation provided in the first condition, or as many of them as may then be alive and free from disease.

5. That in case none of the said cattle contract contagious pleuro-pneumonia during the said time of probation, the honorable Commissioner shall furnish the said Live-Stock Exchange a certificate to that effect, and in case any of the said cattle die or are slaughtered on account of disease during the said time of probation the honorable Commissioner shall furnish a certificate stating the cause of their death, and with what, if any, disease they were afflicted.

RESOLVED, That the entire expense of this experiment—including cost of cattle, their transportation, feed and care—shall be defrayed by the Chicago Live-Stock Exchange.

OSHTKOSH, Wis., Sept. 12.—A disease known as anthrax fever is affecting cattle in this vicinity. Although it is said not to be contagious by the veterinary surgeon, many animals here have died of it. It is caused by the fatty condition of the animal. Some reports have gone out that the disease was pleuro-pneumonia.

ANGOLA, Ind., Sept. 10.—The foot rot has appeared among many flocks of sheep in this county, and several farmers have already killed these afflicted, hoping thereby to prevent its spreading.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Sixty-eight head of cattle arrived at the stock yards Wednesday from a distillery at Peoria and appeared weak and sickly. Health Inspector Lamb took charge of the herd and twenty-nine of the number were killed under his supervision. He condemned the carcasses as unfit for food and turned them over to the rendering tanks. Inspector Lamb thinks the cattle were suffering from Texas fever. The remainder of the herd will be slaughtered and a thorough examination will be made into the nature of the disease.

A DAUGHTER'S DESPERATION.

Miss Runyon's Attempted Suicide

Because of Her Father's Death.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 12.—The truth in regard to Lillie A. Runyon's attempted suicide came out yesterday. The story was told by stableman Atter. While Miss Runyon and a lady friend, from Maine, were driving from Boundbrook, an ignorant farmer told her that her father had killed himself in the bank building. She wheeled the horse around and drove furiously toward her home. Springing out of the wagon she ran towards a well thirty feet deep with ten feet of water in it and threw herself over the railing. Adolph Runyon, a cousin, caught her and prevented her from carrying out her purpose. Since then she has frequently threatened to kill herself. She is kept under strict surveillance. It is feared that her reason has given way. She is twenty-four years old.

RUSSIAN INTERESTS

Protected by a Russian Fleet in Chinese Waters.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A dispatch from Hong Kong states that the Russian fleet has arrived at Nagsasaki, a seaport and commercial city of Japan, and will cruise in Chinese waters for the purpose of protecting Russian interests during the French naval operations against China. It is stated that part of the fleet will be detached to aid General Korff, Chief of the Administration in Amoor territory, to quell the disturbances on the Russo-Chinese frontier, which has assumed formidable proportions.

The Chinese army on the frontier numbers about 30,000, partly composed of convicts. Russia has sent large reinforcements to Amoor Territory and General Korganoft, Commander of the troops of that province, has arrived. Numerous Dunganian and Tatar-Chinese warriors, who are settled on Russian steppes, have asked the Governor General for arms and permission to pass the Chinese frontier.

ENGLISH EMIGRATION.

Earl of Roseberry Opposes the Austria Colony Scheme.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The Earl of Roseberry, speaking at a Trades Union Congress in session at Aberdeen, denounced the Government's emigration scheme, which has for its object the sending of emigrants to colonies, which is diverting the tide of emigration from the United States. He said the Government's scheme was fraught with the greatest danger, as he feared that as soon as the colonies became thickly settled, they would become more independent of the Government and finally sever from the mother country and establish a Government of their own.

"Besides," said he, "the Government will gain nothing from attempting to divert the attention of emigrants from the United States. In my opinion that country is the greatest blessing mankind ever had bestowed on them. England has more interest in the United States than in Canada, because more of her people emigrated there."

THE HEAT OPPRESSIVE,

And There is No Prospect of an Early Abatement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The terrific and unusual heat of the last ten days continues. The Signal Service officer does not offer any immediate hope of a change. He says: "There is still an area of low barometer in Colorado, with a 'high' hanging over the Atlantic Coast in the vicinity of the Carolinas. This condition of affairs has the effect of continuing the warm southerly winds from which we are suffering. The low area in Colorado has the effect of bringing winds in a westerly direction. In addition there is a warm wave apparently approaching from the Pacific slope, which will have a tendency to raise the temperature in Dakota and the lake regions." The weather is so hot that, notwithstanding the fact that laborers in Washington are accustomed to work in intense heat, it has become necessary to partially suspend certain kinds of labor.

FRANCE'S ATTITUDE.

She Will Not Declare War if China Does Not.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—In an interview with a reporter of the United Press, M. Ferry, Prime Minister, stated he has not yet received any official notice of a declaration of war by China, and said the report recently published that China had declared war against France was very improbable. He lamented the hostility of the English press toward France in regard to the latter's action in China. The entente cordiale was precious to both countries. The convening of the Chambers of Deputies at the present moment, he stated, was useless. If China would abstain from declaring war, France would also abstain. He added, in conclusion, that Admiral Courbet had not yet finished his work. The demands of France must be complied with.

ANOTHER BANK PRESIDENT

Suicide in Imitation of President

Runyon—His Wife in Spasms.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—J. H. Squier, banker, who recently failed after a long apparently lucrative career, in negotiation to pay accounts, etc., suicided this morning. He had been very despondent. Reports of the suicides of the New Brunswick bank officers appeared to have preyed on his mind. At 7 o'clock this morning, while in his apartment in his home, during a temporary absence of his wife, he cut his throat with a small pen-knife, and died before assistance could reach him. His wife returned a moment after the deed and was overcome by the horror. She has since been in spasms.

Injured by Falling Walls.

DETROIT, Sept. 12.—The paper walls of the new big roller skating rink at the corner of Twenty-eighth avenue and High street, supporting the trusses section of the roof, gave way at 11:30 this morning, precipitating eight workmen to the ground, injuring all severely, breaking some of their legs. The noise of the crash was heard several blocks away.

ALONZO MUEHLER, of Toledo, found his wife in a baigno in Cleveland and threw an ounce of vitriol in her face. She was fatally burned.

DANIEL STONE & Co., Cincinnati, has sued the Evening Post and Times-Star, of that city, for $25,000 damages each, alleging to have been injured by the publication in both papers of a Pittsburg dispatch connecting Daniel Stone with the embarrassed Coal Valley Coal Co.

The last spike of the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad was driven Wednesday evening, at a point ninety-eight miles below Memphis. Regular trains will run from Memphis by October 1. This makes an unbroken connection from New Orleans to New-Port News in one system.

A DISPATCH from Norwalk, Ohio, says: Positive information has been received by Mr. Evansciver, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, that James G. Blaine will be in Norwalk Thursday, September 25. Mr. Blaine will enter Ohio at Youngstown and go thence to Warren, Cleveland, Elyria, Norwalk, Toledo, Cincinnati and other points. Eloquent and prominent speakers will be present at these places to address the multitudes.
